Later, I stopped in and spoke to Sourwine for the purpose of obtaining any material which he may have setting forth the views of Senator John McClellan (D., Ark.) on the Communist threat. Sourwine was unable to provide any such material.

I also spoke to him about S. 782. Sourwine felt we would need all the help we can get on the Senate side but thought it was a lost cause and that the bill would have to be defeated in the House. He said he knows personally of several senators who are concerned with the security aspects of the bill and who approached Senator Ervin in an effort to correct these problems. Sourwine said in each instance, Senator Ervin had rudely rebuffed those who had approached him.
